

Celebrating 50 years of Catholic Education
1959 - 2009

November 2010

Dear Parent/Carer

Now that the snow has arrived in the East Midlands, I write to let you know the arrangements for this winter should the snow and ice continue.

We will aim to remain open to provide students with continuity of education over the winter months, last winter we managed this apart from one day when the ice proved to be too dangerous for the college to remain open. However given severe weather we remain mindful of the need for students and staff to be safe at all times. It may therefore be necessary to close the College in extreme weather conditions.

Should the College have to close we will endeavour to inform parents and students. The means of communicating College Closure will be via BBC Radio Leicester who will have dedicated Snow News Reports and announcements to provide information for the local community about disruption caused by snow and ice. We will also try and regularly update messages on the college website.

Unless a closure message is broadcast the College will be open as usual. Be assured that the decision to close the College is not taken lightly since student learning remains to be our focus.

May I thank parents of your on-going support.

Yours sincerely
